

Buyers: it's time to get off the fence!

If your credit is good and your job is secure, then it's time to make an offer on a new home.

According to RISMedia.com, mortgage interest rates are expected to rise for the rest of this year.

Economic growth and higher pay are encouraging even more Americans to jump into the already crowded real estate market. And rising interest rates will mean the competition for houses will keep growing.

It's a great time to discuss your real estate needs in this fast-paced market.
